I N this brochure we present a few illustrations of original designs of Sarcophagi, Monuments and Headstones.

Our purpose will be served if this collection is of service in helping the purchaser to a satisfactory selection.

In these pages we are able to but merely suggest the possibilities of originality in monument making. The designs illustrated herein are not "stock patterns." They are the result of original effort on the part of artists working exclusively for us. Every memorial shown on the pages that follow, from the smallest headstone to the most costly and elaborate sarcophagus, are of the types commending themselves most favorably to the best tastes at the present time.

A Word About Quincy.

LOCATION — Quincy is situated on Quincy Bay in Boston Harbor, seven and a half miles south-south-east of Boston. It is on the line of the Old Colony system, New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad. Trains run at brief intervals between the two cities, enabling visitors in Boston to make the trip to our works with little loss of time.

POINTS OF HISTORICAL INTEREST.—There are few cities that equal Quincy in point of historical interest. It was one of the early settlements of Massachusetts. Originally a part of Braintree it separated from that town and adopted its present name in 1792. It was the birth place of John Adams, second president of the United States, and of John Quincy Adams, sixth president of the United States. John Hancock was also born here. The burial place of the two presidents is marked by a memorial church of Quincy granite.

THE GRANITE INDUSTRY.—The first notable monument of Quincy granite was quarried more than half a century ago. The obelisk-formed granite shaft which marks the battle-field of Bunker Hill marks also the beginning of the modern granite cutting industry which has made Quincy famous.

THE DARK BLUE QUINCY GRANITE.—It was our good fortune to purchase the quarry producing the dark blue Quincy granite, which has since become celebrated. The wide popularity which this granite has won in all quarters has been due to fineness of texture, enduring qualities, and its rich coloring, admitting of beautiful contrasts between the rough and polished surfaces. Monuments from this granite have been set in nearly every state and territory. They are entitled to highest rank as splendid examples of the stone cutter's art.

OUR QUARRY AND WORKS.—We are now working our quarry at a depth of one hundred feet below the surface. As we have gone down deeper the quality of the granite has improved. The grain has become finer, rendering the stone harder, more enduring and susceptible to a higher polish.

Although owners of the Quincy quarry we furnish monuments in all the finer grades of American and Foreign granites. We have ready for inspection at all times at our works Finished Monumental Work in wide variety of design and material. We meet the requirements of the most exacting art lover in all our work and designs.

FORM, MATERIAL AND COST.—It will be noted that we have not attempted a description of the different forms of memorials selected for illustration. The subject is altogether too broad for satisfactory or profitable discussion in brief space. The examples shown have been closely studied and embody correct principles. In selecting the material for each design we choose the variety of granite which will give the most pleasing effect.

Quotations of cost can not be given in connection with the illustrations, as all designs may be made in large or small dimensions and the proportions may also be changed. Slight changes in finish will also materially affect the price. We are able, however, to promptly send estimates with dimensions of any memorial shown herein. We cannot quote prices for inferior work, as we are sometimes asked to do. It is our purpose to have our name stand only for that which is best in monument making.
